PROBING MRS. ADAIR'S DEATH. THEY DO NOT HEED KEMPNER

juries Killed Her.

Martha Emily Adair, who died at the Faitbush Insane Asylum April 27 from alleged abuse and violence, was contained before Charities Commissioners Gott, Noian and Murphy, at their office on Elm Piace, Brooklyn, this morning. When Mrs. Adair died she was ninety when Mrs. Adair died she was ninety years of age, and Dr. Phillips, of the asylum, certified that death was due to "senile exhaustion," but an investigation by the Coroner's Jury showed that the patient had died from violence as ten ribs were broken, and her head and chest were covered with bruises.

"Yesterday I visited the asylum and out of a line of forty patients I picked out a woman who had threatened my out a woman who had threatened my mother in my presence."

The patient was Charlotte Suttsburg who has been in the asylum since 1829. Dr Sylvester, in clarge of the asylum read a report taken from the books showing that Charlotte Stuttsburg had slaw asy been a quiet, orderly patient, and had never given any trouble.

Victor Clark, Mrs. Adair's grandson. corroborated the testimony of his mother.

He then proceeded to question Dr. Phillips, but was cut short by a protest from Commissioner Gott.
